

Profile

I'm an enthusiastic, self-motivated and talented economist with specialism in financial economics. Seeks roles in academic research, leadership and lecturing. Benefitted and successfully completed studies through the competitive, in country Germany Academic Exchange (DAAD) university academic staff development programme and published in peer reviewed journals. Provided effective leadership in the teaching and learning process in a multicultural university setting. Successfully completed the first year of coursework in Doctoral studies in economics.

Work experience

1. August 2013 to Present: Tutorial fellow Kenyatta University School of Economics

Areas of specialization:

- Microeconomics
- Financial economics
- Public sector economics

2. August 2012 to August 2013: part time lecturer Kenyatta University School of Economics.

Areas of specialization:

- Microeconomics
- Financial economics
- Public sector economics

3. August 2012 to present: part time Lecturer Daystar University, School of Business and Economics

Areas of specialization:

- Mathematical economics
- Development economics
- Microeconomics

4. February 2011 to February 2013: teaching assistant Kenyatta University, School of Economics, Department of Applied Economics.

Responsibilities:

- Tutoring and coaching academic challenged students
- Liaison person between the school and postgraduate students

5. January 2013 to date: freelance research analyst/assistant

Selected projects

- i) Consumer lifestyles in Kenya: Euromonitor International

Roles:

- Identifying and describing household, firms and other agents' behaviour from observable purchases.
- ii) Mukisu, N. M (2013) The role of employee communication in building Organizational identification: A case of the Standard Media Group

Roles:

- Assisted in data cleaning, econometric and statistical modeling and analysis
- Writing preliminary data collection reports
- Report and presentation of preliminary data analysis to senior researcher

6. January 2010 to June 2010: Mathematics Teacher at Mairiva Secondary School (Arusha – Tanzania).

Roles:

- Class teacher
- Assistant Patron Discovery Club
- Teaching A-level Mathematics

Skills and abilities

- Extensive knowledge in advanced econometrics including but not limited to cross-sectional data analysis, panel data analysis and count data analysis
- Proficiency in advanced statistical software including DEAP, SPSS, E-views and STATA

Educational background

September 2013-Present	Kenyatta University Doctor of Philosophy (Economics) Successfully completed first year course work
September 2010-June 2012	Kenyatta University Masters of Economics (finance) Research Title: Total factor productivity change in the non-life insurance sector, Kenya: 2005-2009 (Published)
September 2006 –June 2010	Kenyatta University Bachelor of Education (arts) Maths and Business studies Classification: FIRST CLASS HONOURS.
2001-2004	Rift Valley Adventist Secondary School Overall performance B+ (plus)

Training and workshops

- Econometrics modeling and computer applications
- DAAD training on use of E- resources and bibliography management tools
- National students leadership forum – Kenyatta university
- Change and personal transformation seminar- Kenyatta university seventh day Adventist church
- Child support, education and development – Adventist development relief agency (ADRA) Kenya

Referees

Professor MARTIN ETYANG
Lecturer Kenyatta University
Department of Economic Theory
Po Box 43844- 00100
Nairobi.
0720030884/0734518565

Dr. PAUL M. GACHANJA
Chairperson
Department of Economic Theory
Kenyatta University
Po Box 43844-00100
Nairobi.
0722328057

Dr. Muchai Muniu
Lecturer Kenyatta University
Department of Applied Economics
Po Box 43844-00100
Nairobi.
0724990204